COMMENTARY

Our stock selection showed solid progress in July, following strong quarterly results for many of the fund's stocks, especially in the medical technology, software and industrials areas. In the field of medical technologies, we highlight the continuation of the excellent operating and stock market results of our niche shares, Xvivo (transplant solutions, +19.4%) with a new quarter of record sales growth of +35%, confirming the success of its solutions for organ preservation during transplantation and Bonesupport (bone graft, +12.3%), whose sales of its disruptive technology in the field of bone grafts increased +57% during the quarter. Our stocks in the field of biotechnology equipment also show a clear rebound, such as Biotage (medical and analytical chemistry equipment, +20.5%), which continues its strong operating and stock performance, and Chemometec (counting and analytical instruments automated cell phones, +25.2%) after a favorable publication. Continuing its path of excellence, Atoss Software (business planning software, +21.8%) advances after excellent results that show sales growth of +13%, cloud revenue of +34% and a new record operating margin of +37%. We also highlight the positive performance of Esker (back-office process digitization software, +15.5%) after a stellar growth in its orders of +65%, driven especially by the United States. Among the French stocks penalized last month, ID Logistics (logistics services, +27.2%) posted the highest growth in its portfolio during the month, and the company posted a further acceleration of its quarterly growth to +19.7%, including +16% that benefits organically from a very strong international contractual dynamic, particularly in the United States. Also in the sector, we highlight the new solid performance of Kardex (intralogistics automation, +18.6%) after an also solid publication. Finally, Munters (climate control solutions, +13.4%) continues to benefit from positive order dynamics for its data center cooling solutions. Unlike the previous month, several semiconductors' stocks associated with AI dynamics suffered during the period, such as Besi (chip assembly equipment, -23.7%) and Asmi (production equipment, -11%), in a particular context of doubts about possible new US regulations that limit access to the Chinese market for next-generation memory technologies used for AI processors. Despite this decline, Asmi once again published results well above expectations in terms of sales growth, order intake and its growth forecasts for the rest of the year, still driven by the adoption of new technologies in the field of HBM DRAMs for AI and the transition to new GAA processor architectures.
